To the Voters of Sumner, Robertson, Cheatham, Montgomery, Stewart Dickson, Humphreysand Hickman Counties, composing the 8th Congressional District. The short space of time between the pas age of the bill re-districting the State and the day of election for Representatives to the Confederate Congress, renders it impossible for me to visit you personally. I therefore avail myself of the medium of a circular to make known to you my candidacy for that position; which candidacy I assume in obedience to solicitations of friends from va- R. R. At the present time, when party lines have been obliterated, there are no political issues to be discussed; and believing, as I do in the wisdom as well as the necessity of the Radways policy of as complete unity of action on the part of our people as is practicable, it would be manifestly improper in me to seek to revive former party issues. I trust that party spirit, so happily allayed for the present, may not be again evoked, at least during the great struggle for our national existence.

With some experience in legislation, pledge to you, if elected, an honest and faithful effort to subserve your interest, and that of our common country, by supporting, with uncompromising earnestness and zeal, all measures looking to a vigorous and successful prosecution of the war to a triumphant termination; that being the one great and only issue now pending before the Southern

The result which he apprehe and forctold is upon us.'

"Mr. Williams has presented in the course of t ries of able letters a succinct history of the instit tion of slavery on the American continent, its influences upon the general welfare of the country, tracing the elements of opposition to it, as exhibited by ing the elements of opposition to it, as exhibited by Northern fanaticism, culminating at last in the organization of a sectional party designed to overthrow that institution, and by which the dismemberment of the Union was effected. The author has treated his subject as a philosophic statesman, and the result of his labors will prove an inestimable addition to a genuine Seathern hierarchy.
